

GIRNIGOE CASTLE, WICK.

Copyright 1903
Raphael Tuck & Sons
London, England

LL11570
MOONLIT SEAS

By Appointment

Girniegoe Castle, near Wick and the northern extremity of the mainland of Scotland, is a romantic old ruin standing close to the sea edge. History relates that 300 years ago an Earl of Caithness confined his son here for seven years, he finally died of starvation. A hundred years earlier the Castle was the scene of a struggle between the forces of Campbell of Glenorchy and Sinclair of Keiss.

Dear M^{rs} & Mrs

How are you?
Did you have a good journey back from Plymouth - We enjoyed our time, I enjoyed ourselves, & all & I a! little fancy - All news when I see you next week. Hope you will like this card. We really must see something like this next year and I hope you will come to see

C. 1912. 9

TUCK'S POST CARD

EXTE. POSTALE

(FOR ADDRESS ONLY.)

MADE IN ENGLAND